STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS FOR CHILDREN CUTTING TEETH.

CATURON TO PURCHASHRA.

The value of this well-known Family Medicine has been largely tested in all parts of the works, and by all grades of society, for upwards of FIFTY VARIA. Its well-earned attentive sale has induced affections intrations, some of which in outwards APTRABANCE occlosely resemble the original as to have deceived many purchasers. The proprietor, therefore, feels it due to the public to give a special caution against the use of such imitations.

Purchasers are, therefore, requested carefully to observe the four following distinctive characteristics, without which some are genuine:—

1. In every case the words JOHN STEEDMAN, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, are engraved on the Government stamp affixed to EACH FACKET.

2. Each SINGLE FUNDER has directions for the disc, and the words John Steedman, Chemist, Walworth, Surrey, printed thereon.

3. The name Steedman is always spelt with twe KE's.

4. The manufacture is carried on solely at Walworth, Surrey.

ITEGOW VALLERY COAL, presentations of the Coal of the Coal shy coal in the Australian colonies. See few reports out of some hundreds received:—

5. G. W. Alixo, Enq., Registrar-General, slates "that, from the experience of some sight months, I find the coal from that locality far superior to any I hay-herestore used for household purposes. The advantage this coal possesses over other coals are cleanliness, chespness, and no waste."

WALTER LAMB, Req., states: "I am pleased to report most favourably on the Lithgow Valley coal for household purposes. It ignites easily, burns brightly, and goes much further than any cost I have ever before used in my grates."

Mr. BYRON, 69, William street, states: "If your coal was 23e, and Newcastle 22e per ton. I steald prefer your coal, being by far the best." R. J. GOODSELL, Req., Newtown Steam Brick and Tille, Mills, Mills, Mills, Says: "Baving thoroughly tried your coal for steam and brickmaking purposes, I am pleased to state that I find it equally as go A and cheaper than any coal I have before upd."

PEAYFORD, BROTHERS, and CO.
state: "We are pleased to add our testimony as to the cicollesse of your coal, as we find it equally as good, if not better than any coal we have save before used, and inflattaly changer than Newcastle coal."

Did space permit, we might quote reports almost ad infinitum; but these few will suffice to prove the coal when we say.

Delivered anywhere in city, £1 2s per ton; suburbs, citra cartage only charged on above price. Large consumers liberally treated. Orders by post promptly attended NOTE THE ADDRESS-NOTE THE ADDRESS.

laughing stock to most intelligent people who have anything about it, it seems likely enough that it may last for a good while yet.

To say one unfamiliar with the history of South Australia for the last ten years or so this phenomenon is inexplicable. It would seem that the people must be under some sort of charm, that, like Titania, they have increased by £161,000; during the past three months the discounted have increased by £161,000; during the past seem that the people must be under some set of charm, that, like Titania, they should so "madly dote" on the asinino. The real fact, however, probably is that the people, being driven into a sort of panic by the action of the late Mr. Justice Boothur in denying the validity of the laws of the colony, conceived that the Court of Appeals might act as asfeguard sgainst the Supreme Court. It is quite clear that it could not have had any such effect, but people who are in extremities will have recourse to any nostrum.

If for the sake only of avoiding expense, it is very desirable that the Supreme Court of each colony should be able to decide finally in all matters which relate to that colony alone. If, however, it is necessary that there should be say appeal from the various Supreme Courts of these colonies, it is obvious that the decisions of an Imperial tribunal are of more value than those of any Court which could be established in Australia.

The aggregate amount of note circulation and open deposits is £6,604,900; against which the aggregate reaerve of coin is £2,405,100, or upwards of 36 per cent. This is three per cent. in excess of what is usually admitted to be the safe and prudent ratio of cash to bank inbilities. The proportions held by the banks severally, placing them in the order of their rates, are as follows:—Union, 66 per cent.; Oriental, 59; London, 56; English, 42; New Youth Wales, 37; City, 36; Commercial, 35; Joint Stock, 26; Australasis, 20.

It would thus appear that in all the banks except the last two, the cash reserves are superabundant.

The aggregate liabilities of the ten banks within the colony are £12,405,700; their aggregate assets, £15,984,100; showing a working capital of £1,578,400. With this working capital they do a lending business of £9,825,500. They trade with their deposits, 49,825,500. They trade with their deposits, increfore, to the extent of more than eight nulfions.

The capital paid up is £7,844,700; the receive fund, £2,860,300. The last half-year's cividend was £481,800, its rates ranging from a minimum of 5 per cent. to a maximum of 20.

SHOCKING MINING ACCIDENT AT BALLARAT.—About half-past 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon (the fitter distes), just after the shifts had changed, a fearful seldent happened at the No. I shaft of the Prince off whele Company, which resulted in the loss of two lives. The company is prospecting for quarts at this shaft. Recently it was sunk from 402 to 700 feet, and a drive put it a listance of about 430 feet south on the course of the loss. It was then decided to put a rise up 30 feet back frient the face, and at 6 clock on Monday the ground at the side of the drive had been cleared away to make room low the imprup. At that time Thomas Hartley and William Sines, two of the contractors, who had been magased in suking the shaft and constructing the drive, and were known as experienced miners, went to work at the high of the minutes afterwards, the men in the face heard a fall of earth near the jump-up, and about the same in a John Jones, one of the men in the drive, heard lisable all out for him. He immediately ran to the rise, and, inding that two sets of timber on each side had given way and buried Hartley and Sims, he crawled over the top 6the Abia. And made his way to the shaft for the purpose of incouring assistance. The mining manager, Mr. Thomas lames, was sent for, and men were at once act o work to recover the bodies; but from the outset there was very sittle hope entertained of extricating the unfortunated in some of the contraction of the shaft for the arrance unit force on 11 o'clock. Dr. Barnett had been in attendence for some time, but unfortunately his services were not equived. Hartley leaves a vife and seven children, and some of the contraction. Both men had been working at the mine for some time, but unfortunately his services were not extend the substitution. Both men had been working at the mine for some six or seven years previously, and,

AR OUTCAST—The following is related by the Leureston Estimator.—Many years ago a half-writed man took up his abods in a case in "Lob's Hole"—the cauge by which the Soath Esk river formerly flowed from the first basis. Occasionally he used to come into town and get a few hours' employment amongst the wood-bests; and with the few shillings thus earned, and by pilering whenever opportunities occurred, he dragged on a wretched existence. Burrounded by his dogs he was the terror of schoolkoys, who nevertheless were drawn by a kind of fascination to the wild neighbourhood where "the Granky Man." had his loans. How he was eventually removed we do not distinctly removed we do not distinctly removed by his dogs but we think come petty their afforded an opportunity for placing him under restricts, who he shortly afterward died. More than twenty years have passed, and another poor creature has taken to a similar style of his and residence. It seems that a man named John Revisigh (but who is better known as "Jack the Fisherman") has for some mentled lived in a small cave, not in Lob's Blole, but on the hill that separates it from the river. Two young men who had heard of the circumstance seated on Sunday mooning to endeavour to find the place. Fortunately the man was at home and had a far in his cave, and guided by the smoke it was discovered without difficulty. The cays is situate near the summit of the hill, on the side faffing the narrow fissure in the recks that formed the entrance, with a fire man his four. He did not speak, but seeing he was observed be tried to a shift so as to escape notice, but the please in cident with presence to the formed. He held no conversation with the two persons.

THE LATE J. E. IRWIN.—We have to record a pleasing incident with reference to the decessed gentleman's connection with the Naval Brigude. The non-commissioned officers and men of that corp lately presented Mrs. Irwin with an address, representing her permission for the sweetion of a measuredail brass tables over her late hashand's remains. The address, which is in the form of a book, suitable for a drawing-room table, was neathy executed by Mr. Kenyoth, law stationer, and the tablet is from the well-known engravers, Messay. Thornthwalts and Co., of Pitterstreel, and hears the following inscription on a shield:—"In memory of John Edwd. Irwin, the first commander in the New South Wales Naval Erigada. This tablet is creefed as a mark of respect by a number of the sour-commissioned officers and mon of that force."

At this point the procession proper was formed, and, attended by two bands of the Windsor and Richmond Volunteer Companies, moved on towards the bridge, entiremed by the strains of excellent music. In the order of the procession went the Ciergy of the district and Mambers of Parliament, the Magiatracy, the Mayor and Aldermen, the Volunteers. Oddfallows, and children of the day-schools of Windsor. Witherforce, and Pitt Town, making up altogether a line nearly half a mile in length. The street was thronged, and at the turn at Pittagraid's corner it was positively difficult to get through the crowd. Here there was another helt for a few minutes for Mr. Satherland, and the march was continued to the bridge. After the people had crossed and recrossed, the Mon. the Minister for Works stood near the triumphal srch and, addressing the concourse of people, said, —"Ladies and Gentlemen,—I have been requested to publicly open his bridge to-day, and I do so with very great pleasure. The past has been an extremely dull week in the Stock and Share market, very few purchases having been made except in bank stock. Holders of this are very firm, thinking it better to retain good dividend-paying investments than realise even at current high rates. Commercial have been scarce: old shares sold to-day at 88; new have not been offered. City are steady at 10½, Joint Stock at 13½, and Mercantile at 5½. National of Queensland remain at 5½. New South Wales at 5½, New Zealand at 18; Union went at from 50 to 50½, the higher price being reported to-day, when for the first time here there was also a transaction in London Chartered at 28. Debentures have not been very salable; only some long-dated New South Wales fives at 16½ were dealt in. Insurance shares have not altered to any appreciable extent, and in most descriptions there is a margin between buyers and sellers. Sydney Fire sold at 60s.; Sydney Marine at 12s. 6d. In Steam we note an improved demand for Australesian, with sales at 21. sellers at 21½. Runter River are less firm since the publication of the half-yearly report. Illawarra have also been offered at a alight decline. Gaslight stock in request at 16, sellers asking 16½.

Illawarra have also been offered at a slight decline. Gaslight stock in request at 16, sellers asking 163.

The course of sales for the past week has been:—Banks: Joint Stock, 133, 133; City, 104; Commercial (old shares), 38; Queeksland National, 53; New South Wales, 524; New Zealand, 18; Mercantile, 54; Union, 50, 504, 504; London Chartered, 28. Delientures:

Until advices from the interior report the roads fit for traffic there is little hope of any improvement in the Import markets. The past week has been marked by general stagnation, and if we exclude the sales by auction there was nothing done. The English mail brings news nothing done. The English mail brings news of a continuance of heavy shipments to the colonies, intelligence by no means satisfactory to large holders looking for an outlet for their surplus stocks. Wheat is a trife farmer, holders of prime samples of Adelaide asking 6s. Id. Flour, dull. Beer in bulk and bottle has an upward tendency, consequent upon the reported injury to the hop crop. The arrival of two cargoes of Oregon lumber has weakened the market considerably, and the arrival of two cargoes of Oregon lumber has weakened the market considerably, and the sales effected show a decline. In other articles there has been so little doing that, in the absence of transactions, we may say there have been no alterations. Our usual monthly commercial summary will be published on Friday next for the Californian mail.

The R. M. S. Jeddah arrived this evening, bringing English advices to June 26. Four

In October 1867, the brief article in the Querterly Review, sent forth as an aread course, excited so much attentise took in England and the Continent, that he was at one humbed from the obscurity of a student into a miter memerable notoriety; and his time was a good deal out up by telless applications for lectures and articles, with which he was besieged. Encouraged, elated he certainly was, but he worked on steadily, and had made considerable advances before illness evertock him.

It is at this point that Mr. Haweis became acquainted with Dr. Beutsch, He says "He told me with what mingled excitement and fear he first became aware of the sensation which this fragment was producing. At first when it was upon all men's lips he felt inclined to hide himself exceame aware of the sensation which this fragment was producing. At first when it was upon all men's lips he felt inclined to hide himself created, and he was oppressed at having awkened so soon expectations which it would late him years of health and labour to realize."

It was also soon after this that the present witer met him at dinner. He was then so roun-locking that on being introduced to "Mr. Dentsch" she concluded that he was the son of the famous Talmudist, who must be represented by some of the elder strangers present. And this we confirmed by his extreme vivacity not a sign of learning, mo stern Semitic barriers put up, but his conversation was one flow of wit and wither met him at dinner. He was then so young-looking that on being introduced to "Mr. Duntech" she concluded that he was the aon of the chier strangers present. And this use confirmeral by his extreme vivacity not a sign of learning, no stern Semitic barriers put up, but his conversation was one flow of wit and reparte. On being asked if it was his father who was the author of the famous article, he perceived the mistake, and, with a twinkle in his bright been mired among men. In every way he played the words the subject, and, when the real state of also were and minimum in the subject, and, when the real state of also were and the subject, and to also were the subject, and to also the subject, and to also the subject, and to also the subject, and, when the real state of also the subject, and to also the subject, and ocasion, records that during his liness, even in moments of extreme agony, the comic element never left him, and his letters to the last show that mixture of fun and pathos so often found in highly strung natures, and almost always combined with extreme sensitiveness. This latter was eminently the case with Mr. Deutsch, and greatly was be tried by the conduct of the British Mescum authorities. While he was an unknown student, everything went well with him; right and left he was used and applied to. If any department was in difficulties—an insoluble problem, an illegible inscription, characters that no one could read, books no one could catalogue—Mr. Deutsch was appealed to, and never in vain. "He did not seem to notice that men unworthy of him often sucked his brains; he was never jeslous that there should get the credit of work done by him. What does it matter "he would often say. The work was done; the cause, the good cause had been helped on."

"But when in one moment he leapt into fame; when as official invitation to the opening of the Ster Canal third from the Vicercy of Egypt; when it was known that a rabbic banques had been given him at Rdinburgh; when the Royal Institution opened it doors to him; when the Royal Institution opened it doors to him; when the dour royal Frincesses considered houself fortimate in sering, the first MS. page of the Talaund article; when he became against his will the him of a London same, as henoured guest at the table of the Prima Maister; when in short across arrived to see him at the harbution where he was a mere subordinate, and letters of also will be a substitute of the dividual work; when he falsued article was trimalated into German, French, have, Bursh, Russian, Danish, Swedish, and even Ice-basis—things begun to change.

Deutsch was very slow to take in the hearing of it. It was difficult for him to believe that were actuated by motives too mean to influence even to enter his head. He retreated inch by me every friendship, influency, or it come contraoted from having been the most open, generous, and Literary Remeins of Emanuel Deutsch." John 1719, London, Maddock's Library, Sydney. Contem-tary Review, April, 1974."

Such is the friend's account of his treatment, and consequent change of disposition, and the details bear out its truth, in spite of the assertion in the other memoir, that Mr. Deutsch was a prey to imaginations, many of the slights being fancted. Imagination or none, the Museum authorities hatened his end. Determined to fulfile every iota of his drudgery work, and yet intent upon researches leading to the fulfilment of what he considered his mission, he "traded on an iron frame." Every spars moment was seized for study; except when invited out, he seldom found him with the pen that had not ten laid down during the live-long night. Had he been granted in time the leave of alseence so eaged; crawed, evil effects might have been warded off. As it was, ill-health began to reveal itself, first in the form of complete alsepticars, and ere long resulting in a terrible internal disease. From this time his life was one struggle between mental strength and physical failure. Even when subject to agonies of pain and constant operations, he concelled his state from all save a few friends, and "not only dragged himself to his daily work at the Museum, but endured the tortures arising from the necessarily active life there, with an heroic fortitude that was the unceasing amazement of his aurgeon. Without any private means, and frequently denying himself in order to send assistance to the old ismily at home, giving up work meant living on the kindness of friends; and it was exquisite pain to him to accept enough to carry him at last to the warmer climate he had longed so carnestly when in health to rec.

In the autumn of 1872 a despairing longing for warmth and sunshine came upon him. Means derived letted unknown to him, six months leave granted, and he left England with a careful attendant. Italy was to him a "sort of resurrection. Then came Florence, the Andante to the vast second and third movements of Rome, while Naples was the intel cantabile." He saw the little that his strength permitted with his usual intensity, and began copying inscriptions and taking motes as if a new file were granted to him. After many delays he arrived at Luxor, having deeply epjeyed the scenes on the Nile. Hiere, though most comfortably entertained by the Austrian Consul, he grew rapidly worse, and became unable to leave his bed; yet all this while, he worse, "my brain is teeming with work work that scems cut out as by special primeval arrangement for me, and me only. The tragical fromy of my failure in life cuts me to pieces. A whole fixed of thoughts, old and new—of suggestions, facts, and conceits storm in upon me with every breath I draw here, at every single sign and token of this boundless tomb-world, wherein lie hidden so many civilizations. The very door of my house is formed out of a mummy case, inscribed with part of the ritual of the dead in fading hieroglyphics!"

We long to call some of the proveros and morables translated from the Talmud—perhaps a few may be added as supplement—but here there is only space to transcribe the closing sentence of the opening essay. This, written in the timess of the author's life and strength; is strangely prophetic of himself. After quoting the following from the Talmud—"It is not incumbent upon the to conclude the work; but "It is not incumbent upon the to conclude the work; but "It is not incumbent upon the to complete the work that there under not therefore cease from it. If then has worked nuch great whall be thy reward; for the Master who completed the is faithful in his payment. But know that the true reward is not of this world."

It writes—
"Sciennly, as a warning, and as a comfort, this adags strikes on our est; "And it is not incumbent on thee to complete the work." When the Masters of the Law entered, and left the academy the used to offer up a short but fervuit prayer, in which we would fain join at this moment—a prayer of thanks that they had been able to carry their task that far; and a prayer further, that they make the their hands, that they might not have fallen into error, that they might not declare pure that which was impure, impure that which was pure, and that their words might be pleasing and steeptable to find and to their, fellow-men."

The preceing of the cattle has been most carefully attended to, and particular attention is directed to the fact that there is a large draft of bullocks now resdy for disposal. The cattle are all in good condition and perfectly quiet, being all paddocked.

The bulls are about 17 in number, one of them being the imported pure-bred bull "Reform," and the others are of high pedigree, from the stud herds of Mossra. Lee, Chisholm, Loder, &c.

All calves under 6 months to be given in; basides which, pur-baser will have the advantage of the incoming branding, which it is estimated will be equal to 800 calves.

The gruzing capabilities are estimated as fully equal to 600c bead, and the station is nearly entirely fenced, and subdivided into paddocks by first-chase substantial fencing.

The run is abundantly and permanently watered throughout. The improvements are good and ample in every way, and are all in thorough repair.

This property can be confidently recommended for its saiularity, favourable situation, and freedom from selection.
